Change of Ownership Filings

When property changes hands, local government agencies require notice of change of ownership. At the local level, this would be any county office that assesses or collects taxes. Reporting a change in the ownership of the property allows the local jurisdiction to assess the tax liability for each property as the title is transferred from seller to buyer.

The reporting documents vary from state to state, but all states require at minimum the names of the seller and buyer, assessor's parcel number or other property identifying number, the property location and tax address. Also required is the total purchase price, terms of sale and signature of the new owner. The reporting document is recorded along with documents evidencing a change in ownership. In California, the document is called a Preliminary Change of Ownership (PCOR), and it assists the local agency in identifying situations in which a property reassessment is allowed under Proposition 13.

Penalties or fines may be assessed from the governing body for failure to file the document as required by state or local laws. The escrow officer will generally assist the client in completing the document and ensuring that it reaches the Recorder's Office along with the other documents pertinent to the change of ownership.

Some situations which appear to be a change of ownership are exempt from the filing of this type of document, including corrections to the record and status changes such as a change in vesting.

Federal Requirements

The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) requires that sellers report certain information pertaining to sales of real property. Under the Tax Reform Act of 1986, reportable transactions include sales and exchanges of properties including, but not limited to, houses, townhouses and condominiums. Also reportable is stock in cooperative housing corporations and mobile homes without wheels. Specifically excluded from reporting are foreclosures and abandonment of real property, as well as financing or refinancing of properties.

The escrow officer, as the settlement agent, will ask the seller to complete a Certificate for Information Reporting for the 1099-S form which may be required by the IRS. The seller is required to provide his or her correct taxpayer identification number (social security number), as well as the closing date of the transaction and gross proceeds of the transaction. Most settlement agents now transmit the reportable information electronically to the IRS at the end of the year, although a "hard copy" of the form is included in the seller's closing documents.

Property Taxes

Homeowners pay property taxes to their appropriate assessment, collection or franchise tax department in each county. A change in ownership or the completion of new construction could result in a change in the assessed value of the property and may result in the issuance of a supplemental property tax bill. Taxes are due on predesignated dates and become delinquent when not paid. Penalties are assessed for delinquent taxes. The yearly "tax calendar" varies by state. In addition to standard property taxes, many jurisdictions also contain special assessment districts, which may have been formed as a means of financing infrastructure. Bonds may have been sold to finance the infrastructure and the ultimate property owner continues to make payments on the principal and interest on the bond. The bond issues vary in size and term. Other special city and county districts may be assessed for a variety of purposes, including street lights and traffic signals, street maintenance, certain educational purposes, etc.

Transfer Taxes

Transfer Tax, often called Real Property Transfer Tax, is a tax collected by the County Recorder when an interest in real property is conveyed. It is paid at the time of recording, and is computed using the actual sales price. An amount, legislated by the state or county, is charged per $500 or $1,000 of the sales price. Although it is common for the seller to pay this tax, in some areas tradition dictates that the buyer and seller will split the payment.

Many cities have levied an additional tax within their jurisdictions. In some counties, these taxes are collected by the County Recorder along with county transfer tax, but in other areas a separate check will be mailed to the city. Your escrow officer is familiar with the taxes required and will coordinate payment of the appropriate amount.

Withholding Requirements (California)

Some states, such as California, require that certain sellers "prepay" their required state taxes through withholding of a percentage of the sale proceeds. State law requires that the buyer accomplish the withholding, and he/she may be subject to penalties for failure to withhold and send the appropriate amount to the State Franchise Tax Board. However, the buyer may delegate this responsibility to the escrow holder, and the escrow holder may charge a fee for this service. The law requires the escrow agent to give written notice of the withholding requirement to the buyer.

Most sellers will qualify for an exemption to the withholding law. Here are some of the exemption situations:

- Principal residence
- Property that is part of a like-kind exchange
- Properties under $100,000
- Sales that result in zero gain or loss for state tax purposes
- Property owned by certain corporations and partnerships
- Property ownership by tax-exempt entities

The escrow holder will provide a state withholding form to the seller to help determine if any of the exemptions apply. The withholding guidelines can seem quite complex, but your escrow officer has forms and educational materials to help educate your clients. Further information is also available through your local Franchise or Tax Board or from the American Land Title Association.
